Put The Diamond Jubilee Day Over Big -- Let's Go!

ADVANCED HIGHWAY POLICY ADVOCATED

With Canada reaping a harvest of more than $100,000,000 yearly from the tourist traffic at the present time, and the summer camping movement from the United States scarcely commenced to this country, Alberta should energetically prepare to meet this tremendous traffic at the international border with a system of all-weather main highways which would open the East West and the wonderful Canadian scenery on a scale sufficient to obtain magnificent returns in capital and new settlers within the next few years.

This was the unanimous opinion of members of the Alberta Motor Association representing many parts of the province at the first annual meeting held in Edmonton May 17th. Officials of the Association with a first hand knowledge of conditions reported that veritable armies of tourists from the United States are anxious to "explore" Alberta once they have assurance that all-weather highways are available.

The meeting adopted a resolution calling on the Provincial Government to embark on a three-year main highway building program with an outlay of $10,000,000, to be raised by a capitalization of the revenue now received from the motor vehicle license and the motor fuel tax, amounting this year in round figures to $1,500,000.

It was also agreed that the most earnest and concerted effort should be made to have the Dominion government re-establish the Federal Aid Policy for provincial highways, first granted in 1919 and to expire in 1927 and of which fund of $20,000,000 Alberta received $1,477,000. Members were strongly of the opinion that the Dominion should appropriate $500,000 to the provinces on a road mileage basis in each province, with the definite object in view of completing an All-Canadian Highway from coast to coast and of perfecting the main tourist routes into the country.

Earmarking motor license and gas tax receipts for road purposes in the province; the building of main highways through urban municipalities by the government; the adoption of uniform traffic regulations in the province; completion of Jasper highway; investigation of the question of building a hard surfaced highway from Edmonton to Montana within a few years, and a vote of appreciation of the Government.

Lindbergh Gambled With Death

PARIS, May 25.—When Captain Charles A. Lindbergh arrived in Paris from New York Saturday night, safe and sound, a crowd of at least 25,000 surrounded his plane, the "Spirit of St. Louis." The aviator was lifted from the seat, where for two days and a night he sat fast, quiet, and comfortable, and was, for 40 minutes, he was hardly able to walk or do anything else, except to himself be congratulated by a mass of eager and delighted onlookers with joy at his achievement.

Never has an aviator for any nation won a king of a more grateful and more spontaneous welcome from the hearts of the common people of France. All ties of nationality were forgotten by the throng at Le Bourget, flying field. They saw in Lindbergh only a man who had bravely gambled with death and won.

I SAW LAST WEEK
MAYOR SHRIMPTON and his committee with "the smile that won't come off" thinking of the nice feature available for Saturday, July 2, when Strathmore will really celebrate the Diamond Jubilee. Wait for it! Watch for it! In the words of Ted Richards, who will be the real only winner, THE HOOLIGAN HUSSARS on parade without Major-General Harmer in command. LESTER JONES all night on Saturday afternoon, making fast time to the C.P.R. station to say farewell to a friend, "PIE" GIBSON, last in hand at 1 a.m. Saturday morning, bidding good night to a lady friend on Third Street, Atty boy, 15, "MICKY" TORRANCE acting like a foreman for the Premier Motors touring car, in the finish, CHARIOT DRIVER BILL KEELING driving in the parade, that would make Slim Moonshine jealous. HARRY ANDERSON looking for some fellow dog that alarmed his chicken family. PETE DE KORT presenting some of his friends with some of Bob Haulby's Perfected in honor of his birthday which falls on Empire Day. Pete refuses to state how many have passed, and guards the secret like a maiden who has turned the thirty mark. JIM SWANSON having the time of his young life at the old time dance Monday night. A lot of people expecting JIM WEBB to turn out in his "kilt", ARCHIE GRAY maintaining that he was the best looking man in the Fire Brigade. ANSON CHASE enjoying the ball game on Tuesday night, assisted by MIKE MORAN and another Hooligan who persisted in hitting in. BILL SAUNDERS endeavoring to give the Irican a visitor a good time at the dance, and he did.

material progress during the past 25 years. The outlook is that the next 25 years will see progress and development beyond the dreams of today. The reason is not hard to seek. Canada has what the world needs. We have the natural resources for which the world is willing to pay. The world must come to Canada. If we do not waste or dissipate our natural resources, if we conserve and develop them by Canadians for Canadians, then the future is assured. The sixtieth anniversary of Confederation should mark the opening of a new and greater era for the Dominion.

MARRIED AT SACRED HEART CHURCH

On Wednesday, May 18, a happy event was consummated at the Sacred Heart Church, when the marriage ceremony was celebrated by Rev. P. McNamee, minister in marriage Miss Molly Nudds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nudds, of Strathmore, and Mr. H. F. McMahon, of the R. C. M. of Regina, formerly of St. John's, N.D.

Miss Oona Van Wezel was bridesmaid, while Mr. Gene Groux acted as best man.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents.

The happy young couple will make their home in Leithbridge to which the groom has been transferred.

NO ROOM FOR PESSIMISM

LONDON.—To those Canadians who are inclined to have the blues at present, the fact that in 1926, with a population of less than 10,000,000 people, Canada attained an average equal in value to the mining output of the United States when they had a population of 50,000,000, and we did one-fourth as much export trade as the United States with less than one-twelfth of the population; we spent $110,000,000 on the purchase of automobiles, and at the same time invested $50,000,000 in bonds and added nearly $100,000,000 to our bank deposits.

These figures are authoritative and are prepared by the Canadian Business Research Bureau. There is no country in the world which has made such

EMPIRE DAY MOST SUCCESSFULLY CELEBRATED

Empire Day, 1927, was a milestone in the history of Strathmore, when, for the first time, it was observed on a large scale.

This was a day when "Strathmore" expects every man this day to do his bit, and all joined most heartily in the preparations for the various activities of the day.

Possibly the greatest effort of the day was in the parade and the results were most gratifying, both from an educational and an artistic viewpoint. It is impossible to estimate the far reaching effects of such an occasion in the impressionable minds of young children.

It gives one quite a thrill to see each little child wearing a flag or maple leaf, and various other emblems that unfortunately they see far too little of in their lives.

The committee in charge deserves the greater credit for having the foresight to realize the talent that lies in the town and the surrounding community.

The school formed the nucleus of the parade and contributed cheerfully to the spirit of the day.

The parade was marshalled by Bob Anderson, who kept everyone directed, and in a good natured way.

The parade was officially led by His Worship, the Mayor, followed by Mr. H. J. French, representing the School Board.

Next came Spence Hughes in a fully decorated car, which was followed by a very interesting display of mechanical equipment; next "I Saw" on the Street" scar decorated with "The Standard", fully decorated with flags and bunting.

The Dooville Fire Brigade followed with a splendid turn out of fire ladders in full fighting regalia, which, Councilor Schulte and Chief McFarlane, inspired some to equal, with their little mascot, Elven McFarlane.

Tom Chamberlain with his 1927 Flappers, proved that Strathmore should have been represented in the recent beauty contest at Vancouver. The float section followed, led by the I.O.D.E. with stately Britannia represented by Miss Sally Wright and four lovely little girls dressed in white. John Cott, Helen French, Willie French, and Francis Gray. The dignity of this float was greatly enhanced by the two splendid white perchmen, kindly loaned by Chas. Keeling, and capably driven by his son, Billy.

Orange Valley School made a very excellent showing with their appropriate and artistic banner of orange and black, followed by a goodly representation of "Sun-Kid" children.

Next came the "Progress of the West", introduced by a banner "1927", carried by Vincent Moran. This led the Indian section, who were most realistic, ably represented by members of Mr. Porter's class, who won first prize.

Then came the "Discoverers" who showed much originality in their costumes, in which Florence Harriman, Mary Holliman, Jack Crill and Ted James took part.

The "Pioneers" in the chuck wagon were exceedingly good, but our "red-headed" driver, who played the copy containing the names of those taking part, and we don't care what happens to him.

The Japanese tea garden was a dream of loveliness, won second prize, and showed a great amount of patience and artistic ability on the part of Miss Patterson.

The Crofton S. D. had a unique and very interesting display, representing the various festive days of the year, St. Valentine, St. Patrick, Easter, Halloween, and Christmas.

How would you picture the Pioneer Woman?

HEARD ON THE STREET

The angry citizen puffed into the office of the editor. "See here, sir," he yelled, "what do you mean by publishing my resignation from my office in this way?"

"You gave the story yourself, didn't you?" asked the editor.

"Of course I did," replied the angry citizen, "but your foot paper prints it under the head of Public Improvements."

Stubby Gardner: "To whom was Minerva married?"

Teacher: "My boy, when will you learn that Minerva was the Goddess of Wisdom? She wasn't married."

Small Brother: "Ha, ha! I saw you kiss Sis!"

Bobby Hambly: "Erahhere's a quarter!"

"And here's the change. One price to all, that's the way I do business."

Arithmetic problem: "A young woman at 7.45 last night went up stairs to dress. She is 19 years of age and weighs 112 pounds. State the wait of the young man downstairs."

Dear Girl: "It is true that I haven't have a girl in every town."

Elmer Jenkins: "Naah, we don't stop in every town."

Bill Tierney says one of the nice features of ice cream is that it is boneless.

They had been married just long enough for the novelty to have worn off, and the wife was beginning to find her feet as her mother would undoubtedly have put it.

"Before we were married, George," she complained, "you always took a taxi from the theater but now the bus seems good enough. In fact anything is good enough for me."

Her husband frowned, for he seemed to be in rather a difficult fix. But he was not long in finding a way out.

"No, darling," he murmured, "don't think that. You see, I'm so proud of you, and if I took you in a cab there would be nobody to see you, whereas I can show you off to dozens in the bus."

A Calgary doctor's young son was entertaining a friend in his father's office. They were looking with admiration at a skeleton kept in a closet of the doctor's office. "Where did he get it?" the guest whispered.

"Oh, he's had it a long time. I guess maybe it was dad's first patient," replied the son.

A little fellow of six years of age heard his father and mother talking about the circus, and during their talk they dwelt at length upon how they had particularly enjoyed a number of years before.

"Why wasn't I there, Mamma?" the little fellow put in.

"You weren't born then, dear," replied his mother.

"Where was I?"

"Oh, you were in heaven with the angels."

"Ooh, mother," exclaimed the indignant youngster, "do you mean to tell me you left me in heaven all day with the angels while you and rest of the family went to the circus?"

Elmer Jenkins: "What kind of case do you prefer?"

Young lady: "Wedding."

King Kelly: "The transgressor has a heck of a lot of fun."

Impudent Strathmore Youth: "How long shall I have to wait for a slave?"

Bob Anderson (after careful scrutiny): "Oh, about two years, I would judge."

That home belongs to a very rich man in Calgary. He has a German cook, a French maid, a Jap valet, a Scotch garage mechanic, an Irish chauffeur, a Swedish housekeeper and an American secretary.

"That ain't a mansion. That's a world court," slyly remarks Tony McKinley.

Hubby: "Where did you get that new headed bag, and how much did it cost?"

Wifey: "Why, that's no bag. It's my new party frock."

Fortune teller: "I see a tall dark man coming again and again. You must be careful of him's situation."

Mrs. Blank: "I know. He's threatened to take the furniture away if I don't pay the installment on it."

A Scotchman disqualified himself last week by throwing away a Christmas tree that might have done for another year. Of course, he did it while in a state of absent-mindedness.

Strathmore lady: "And what brought you to town, John?"

John Davis: "Oh, well, I just came to see the sights, and I thought that I'd call on you first."

A Calgary lady says she likes waxed floors.

After she had waxed and polished it the other week, a neighbor who "just ran in to see if she could use the phone for a moment" for the fifteen thousand nine hundred and seven-ninth time, slipped on the glassy surface and had to be carried home unconscious.

The plumber who came to replace a section of leaky water pipe, and grossly overcharged her, lost his footing at the head of the cellar stairs.

A woman, who was collecting funds with which to establish five beauty parlors for Hottonnet girls, sat down unexpectedly in the hall and slid half of the stairs to the kitchen door. She left at once, laughing hysterically.

Uncle Harry, who regularly invites himself to visit us for an indefinite period every year, forgot to be careful on the landing and descended the remaining stairs in a very unconventional fashion. He did not and not a single tear. I know, because I counted thirteen distinct thumps. Next morning I helped him out to the taxi that was to take him to the station.

As I said before, I liked waxed floors.

A clergyman was conducting a funeral in a western state when two shots were fired outside the church. The undertaker rushed out but returned in a few moments smiling.

"I've secured both these customers for us," he whispered to the parson, with pardonable pride.

Tony Grogan, who is a bit of a humorist thus describes the game of golf: "Golf is an affliction—the study of two liabilities, in which you may exhaust your salary but never your exclamation: It is a braising contest, a series of pines, calling for stout allies and courage to wear knickerbockers. It is a test of temper, a trial of endurance, a revealer of how long it affords a chance to gamble and not the cave man. It means going into bunkers, debt and restaurants; getting away from church, sleep and house cooking; getting close to insanity, a sweeping away of home ties, a genuine recreation with veracity. It is a cure for ambition, an antidote to work, it seals torture, but is fierce on morals, lectures and asceticism; scores, opportunity for assault and battery to an opponent. It promotes not only physical torture, but it fires on morals."

The Bytown Troubadours

1—Pierre Gauthier 2—Fortunat Champagne 3—Charles Marchand 4—Emile Boucher 5—Miville Bellet

The good old French-Canadian songs, richly harmonized and interpreted with taste, have always met with great success, but one has to hear them rendered by several voices to enjoy their fullness of poetry and music. In order to present such songs in their most artistic setting the Canadian Pacific Railway obtained the services of Charles Marchand and his famous Bytown Troubadours for the Folk-song and Handicraft Festival held at the Chateau Frontenac last spring.

This quartet was founded at Ottawa in 1926 by Mr. Marchand and the friends who seconded him in bringing these songs before the general public. Fortunat Champagne, Fort-Laroche, Alfred LaBrie, and Miville Bellet, bass.

The leader and founder of the quartet was a former chorister of the Handicraft at Ottawa. He is an ardent admirer of the old French songs and is the very soul of the quartet. His profound knowledge of the rhyme characterizing the old country songs enables him to render them faithfully. This has resulted in an inspiring emulation among his friends mentioned above, who have entered with enthusiasm in interpreting the songs indigenous of the Province of Quebec.

The programme rendered at the Festival by the Bytown Troubadours, consisted of songs by Amélie Tremblay, Omer O'Brien, Paul Laroc, Alfred LaBrie and Maurice Morisset. Pierre Gauthier has arranged these songs for several voices, doing so with such skill that even greater charm has been drawn from the old harmonizations. Mr. Gauthier came to Ottawa in 1926, after a brilliant career in France, as professor of piano and harmony.

The Bytown Troubadours is a unique organization in musical circles on the continent. Every member is imbued with the true spirit of French-Canada, and is able a faithful interpretation of the songs of their forefathers.

SPECULATORS DROP TWO MILLION IN WHEAT GAME

CHICAGO—Shorts in all grades got a terrific rocking recently. Rumor on the Board of Trade had it that Tommy Howell was the principal force. If such the stories that circulated on the exchange this week were half true Howell and the entire class that follows him, believing him to be a sort of "Bear Moses," lost two million dollars by the vicious upward twist that came following heavy delivery of wheat and corn.

It is said the bear clique was forced to cover upwards of 25,000,000 bushels of wheat and corn. A speculator who mildly approached that in July wheat last year resulted.

A queer situation exists in grain. For nearly a year Europe was tremendously bearish on wheat—in fact, it was selling almost on a par with Chicago. But in recent weeks there has been a tremendous volume of foreign buying.

Some credit this to advance information abroad regarding possible world war developments within a few months. A more sensible view of the situation is that Europe overestimated the world's available stocks of wheat and underestimated their needs.

In this connection it seems strange how that Europe for the last three years has failed to take into consideration that Russia must be counted on as an important exporter of wheat.

Prior to the war Russia raised nearly fifty per cent of the total wheat crop of Europe and its failure to resume wheat production since the war has seriously weakened the food supply of the countries that formerly depended on Russia for wheat.

Another view of the situation is that big interests have at last decided to support the United States grain markets. This seems a bit far fetched since Canadian wheat is selling at a stiff premium over Chicago and other U. S. markets and Winnipeg has had no important help from banks or capitalists who were willing to pool as Santa Clara to farmers.

That home belongs to a very rich man in Calgary. He has a German cook, a French maid, a Jap valet, a Scotch garage mechanic, an Irish chauffeur, a Swedish housekeeper and an American secretary.

EMPIRE DANCE BASEBALL

The Langdon Badgers were the first team to face Eddie Credlin, and they made a fine practice for the local twirler. The Langdon boys have not had much training, and hope to be in a position to give a better game later in the season. Young Jack Credlin made his debut in senior company, and made good. E. P. Foster was also a new and satisfactory addition to the team.

Old Man Miller, who played with the ice hockey stars in 1874, was behind the bat for the local team, and gave Grover Alexander Credlin the support. The score was 11 to 1.

The second game of baseball was called at dusk, with the local team facing the Premier Motors, of Calgary. Eddie Credlin did the iron man sum, and pitched the second game, and the Cowpunchers recorded for the seven innings, when the game was called.

"Johnny" Loucks, the old time local favorite, was in the game, but has not yet found his batting eye, but hopes to regain it as soon as he gets the Dugan Ginger Ale out of his system, and is fairly hot on a C.P.R. barrel.

The Cowpunchers were absolutely outdone, the game exceedingly close, and the local victory, but interesting notwithstanding, some good work being done by the visitors, especially their pitchers, if given reasonable support.

The fans were delighted to see Eddie Credlin so effective, especially after the operation upon his knee. He had excellent control, his old time speed, which, together with a nice change of pace, excellently supported by "Gladys" Miller.

Successful Dance
The team were in fine shape, and the "baseball bugs" may anticipate a good season.

Only eight of the Premier Motors reached first, and none scored, the game being called at the end of the seventh inning, score 14-0.

The dance put on at the Memorial Hall by the Baseball Club, was very successful, all having a good time, and delighted with the music furnished by the Strathmore Elks orchestra.

Rev. Percy Johnson and Mrs. Johnson have decided to move through to their new home in Nova Scotia, when they leave on June 25th.

"Yes, my boy, I reckon you can have it," smiled old Max Zell to his daughter's suitor, Harold Smith, "but take good care of her for she's been riskin' tenderly."

"Eight acres is all I ever ask her to plow between sunup and dark. She can do light work, such as well diggin' and steer brandin', but she ain't used to no rough stuff, so you'll have to be gentle to her."

"I'll tell you it's mighty hard to give up my little sunshine, for from now on I'll have to split my own seed and tend the stock and show the snowbirds, and to do all the other little chores that it seems like a woman was just cut out to do."

"Take her, son, but for a leavin' old father's sake, treat her gentle."

Harold, with right hand raised, promised most solemnly to be a square shooter.

"Dear Gladys," wrote Smithy, "pardon me, but I'm getting so forgetful. I proposed to you last night, but really forgot whether you said yes or no."

Gladys Zell: "Dear Harold," she replied, "so glad to hear from you. I knew I said 'no' to someone last night but I had forgotten just who it was."

Empire Day

Hervy School, representing different portions of the Empire, were exceedingly good, and were awarded much prize money.

Grade VI made a very pale showing in their purple and gold alphabet. Each child was a most artistic hat with a letter of the alphabet and reflects great credit upon Mrs. Don McLean, formerly Miss Sanford, who was most instructing for the success of her class.

Miss Strong's class represented the Humane Society, and had "Honorary Members" of their order with them in the form of little puppets, kittens, and a "model" rooster.

The Elks Band, led by Bill Saunders, were most generous with their music. The parade formed at the park and marched directly to the Memorial Hall where Mayor Strimling opened the ceremonies with a brief address.

"O Canada" was sung by the school children, led by Mrs. Chester Lyttel. Inspector F. G. Buchanan, of Calgary, gave a very interesting address of the benefits of being a member of the British Empire.

The National Anthem was then sung and the parade proceeded to the school grounds, after which they disbanded, and the contest of the five classes of the Baintree school in physical training was then held.

Each class made a very creditable showing, and both teachers and children seemed to be in top form.

Johnny Monague is suffering with a badly sprained arm, getting it caught in a halter rope, and the horse jerking it near out of the shoulder.

The singing teams had all been trained with great care by Miss Strong, to whom the thanks of the community should be extended most fully for the results obtained. The awards were: 1st, Miss McMillan's class; 2nd, Miss Patterson's class; 3rd, Miss Strong's class.

The judges for the parade were: T. Gosselin, Mrs. Densin and Inspector Buchanan.

Chairman Joseph French and his committee are to be complimented upon the excellent results of their effort in the development and carrying out of the programme of the first celebration undertaken by the Empire Day Association, with the further hope that next year it will be bigger and better, and that more and more of the schools of the Bow Valley will join in celebrating Empire Day.

A pony ridden by a young lad, dropped and fell moments after competing in the pony race, and much regret expressed by the spectators for the little lad in his loss.

Mrs. Hughes gave up almost his entire day assisting the teachers and committees, which help was most heartily appreciated.

SPORT NOTES

WINNING BASEBALL CLUBS MAKING FORTUNE

NEW YORK—The fact that nearly 65,000 baseball fans paid to see the Yankees beat the Athletics at Col. Ruppert's stadium proves a rough estimate of the gate receipts collected by those clubs for eight games, equally divided between this city and Philadelphia. The financial haul is placed at not less than $25,000.

The Athletics opened the American League season at the Yankee stadium in the presence of 62,000 spectators, of whom perhaps 19,000 gained admission on complimentary invitations. Four games, one tie, constituted that series, and the franchises were said to have registered a total of 120,000.

Visiting Shibe Park to cut losses, the championship campaign, the Yankees drew $5,000 for three contests. Coupled with last Sunday's figures, it is safe to say that the eight games attracted 270,000 paid admissions and deadheads, the latter being limited at 25,000.

Baseball men say that the gross receipts for the five games in the stadium reached $150,000 and about $75,000 for the three better in Philadelphia. The New York ticket rates are higher than the prices charged in the Athletics park.

Based on the rule giving a stadium club 25 cents for each paid admission, the Athletics' share at the stadium may have been $10,000, the Yankees getting nearly $20,000 in Philadelphia. The New York club's total raised was fixed at $115,000, with the Quaker magazine drawing down, however.

Col. Ruppert, assuming that these estimates are not exaggerated, has been enabled to meet Babe Ruth's record salary of $75,000 for this year, according from the games with the Mackmen alone, while Connie Mack has taken in enough money to settle with Ty Cobb at $60,000 and Eddie Collins at $20,000.

Sunday's capacity attendance at the Yankee stadium wasn't the only illustration of the metropolitan public's wonderful interest in baseball and other sports. Over at Ebbets field 25,000 persons were attracted by the game between the Giants and Dodgers. Nearly 10,000 saw the soccer football match at the Polo grounds, and 15,000 cultivated over the bicycle race at the New York Velodrome.

GENE TUNNEY IS NOT POPULAR CHAMPION

Gene Tunney has not proven a popular champion although he is no doubt the most intelligent and most consistently of the many who have held the heavyweight title during the last fifty years.

Tunney is more modest than the general run of title champions, and the fact that he is particular about the company he chooses, has led to the belief that he is "too strong" and inclined to "high hat" ordinary individuals.

Jack Dempsey, defeated by Tunney for the championship, would have been a very popular champ had it not been for evading the war draft, but that did not on Dempsey's career was due to his manager, Jack Kearns, than to himself.

Curiously enough, Jack Dempsey as an ex-champion is more popular than he was as champion of the world. Dempsey is now padding his own canoe and this rather supports the contention that Kearns was responsible for much of the ex-champion's unpopularity.

Jack Dempsey fighting Jim Maloney, Jack Sharkey or Jack Delaney would draw as many customers as Gene Tunney fighting any of the present crop of contenders, except Jack Dempsey.

There never will be another champion as universally popular as Joe Louis. In his day, Joe Louis was always ready to take on any challenger, although he did draw the water into the ring. The size of the stake Louis's title was governed entirely by the amount each fighter deposited as a side bet, but conditions have changed. There is now no opening for another Joe Louis.

Who's entitled to be just as short and business-like as it is as she chooses. Men spoiled by snappy wives—babe hosts to get married for fear of finding out that the sweet violet might turn out to be a burdock—babe is a woman the name of Collette. Collette don't go down to the Refectory office and stick an old hat pin into the editor.

CHALK HANDLING CHICAGO WHITE SOX WELL

NEW YORK—The Chicago White Sox are batting harder than they did in the days when they were hitting wonders and they are winning but games as well as they did in those days, even if they haven't got an idol, Walsh.

The White Sox didn't have to bat much when Walsh pitched and when Sullivan was behind the bat. If a batter occasionally got on the bases with Walsh singing spitballs to the White Sox was interrupted in Sullivan would throw the runner out in some way before he got home.

The seven game winning streak of the White Sox was interrupted in Tuesday's game, which Rip Collins won for the Detroit Tigers, but the Chicago team still had a good grip on third place.

One of the reasons why the White Sox have been winning games in Ted Williams. He is a pitcher who has come through strictly according to the spring "dope". He pitched as well as he has in the past, which when he was throwing the ball around at Silverport, La. and down there he seemed to be a little better than ever before. He always won in uniform belonging to a great pitcher.

Another reason for the success of the Sox is Clancy. Maybe that's the young first baseman was permitted to remain too long in Little Rock. He pitched with the Sox in 1923 and it was suggested that he seemed about ripe for major league ball, but Eddie Collins sent him back to the Southern Association for another season and Clancy is ready. The latter is still a pretty good first baseman but Clancy is younger and has some things on him about that far he has been hitting about .300 for the Sox.

Hummel stepped in at shortstop when Beckenbaugh was temporarily disabled and Hummel has been there ever since. What's the use of taking him out when he is going like a streak? He improved all last season at short when he had a chance to play and more and more, he has demonstrated that Cincinnati pulled a move when that club let him go. The Reds had retained Hummel, he would have been the agent to win another pennant for Cincinnati.

Ray Scholtz is handling the White Sox admirably. The many years that he put behind the bat for the Chicago team and him as thoroughly acquainted with the possibilities of the players and the skill of the pitchers as any man on the club.

Scholtz does not play a ball game as Collins did. Scholtz's style is more that of the traditions of the White Sox in other days when Plater Jones was manager and when the Sox could match any club in the American League and beat it by one run. Scholtz is playing for the run to put him in the lead and if the other team doesn't overtake him, he plays to get more runs to keep him in the lead.

The White Sox have been great finishers. That is one reason why they have a winning streak and why they have knocked the Sox out of the series who picked them for a low berth in the American League race.

YOUNG GOOD SWIMMER BUT BAD FINANCIER

TORONTO—Henry O'Brien is back in Toronto. He came from his home in Santa Monica, Cal., escorting Mrs. Young back to her home. It is Mrs. Young's intention to remain in Toronto.

Henry estimates that the Young party lost contracts amounting to $100,000 through the unfortunate swimming which took place immediately following the Catalina swim. That is lost never to be found again. He also notes that Gen. Young, a young boy when he left Toronto, is now a grown man physically, and that his mind is broadening out with caution of travel and mixing with all kinds of people.

It may be news to most people that Young's money is tied up for him until 1928. He will, of course, have to come from this as well as sufficient of what he earns in the meantime to keep him and his mother in comfort. George is at present shopping in Pittsburgh.

Mr. O'Brien states that a race of 21 miles under the auspices of the Canadian National Exhibition is assured for this fall. It would be over a triangular course. In this connection, Shute-Mendelson has already enquired from intending competitors to the number of twenty, and a whole flock of them have been addressed to Mr. O'Brien.

TEACHING THE BOSS BATTING POINTS

Washington fans expect to see a big improvement in the batting of Manager Harris, who has been receiving instructions in the many art of hitting from no less a master than the veteran gray eagle Ty Speaker. It is an unusual sight to watch Speaker working hard with Harris to see if he can add about twenty points to the batting average of his youthful manager, which would come putting him in the class of the star hitters of the league.

Speaker has been studying Harris' style closely and believes that if he were to swing higher and straight out instead of using the poke, he would improve his batting a whole lot. This belief that by adopting this style he would be able to meet the pitch fully in the face and would drive more balls right over the infield, is Ty Cobb is having considerable success with Al Simmons and Lamar of the Athletics, and will soon take Bud Brannon in hand.

ALBERTA CROP CONDITIONS DECIDEDLY FAVORABLE

Farmers are on the land every where, and a week or so of good weather will see wheat seeding finished except, of course in excessively wet areas. Conditions throughout the province are very irregular in respect of amount of seeding done. From Edmonton extending East to Saskatchewan, boundary and South as far as Red Deer, twenty-five to thirty-five per cent. of wheat seeding is finished. Red Deer south to Lethbridge about sixty per cent. seeded. East of Taber very little work done yet as the land is quite wet. More moisture over whole of Alberta than in any previous year of this time. Likely to be more stubble in than usual on account of late season, and much acreage excepting in some Southern Alberta sections will likely be somewhat reduced.

ADVICE TO BACHELORS

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

The Ottawa-Reformer, just at the season of the year when marriages are becoming numerous, gives a bit of advice to people getting married. In part the Reformer says:

"Many bachelors are bachelors just because of this fear. Many a man has had his day's work spoiled and perhaps has become a failure in life when he might have been a success, were he, in the morning he was sent away with a snarl and a snarl rather than with a kiss and a smile. Who knows how many good men have been spoiled in this way."

The man on the Reformer has probably had an invitation to a wedding. He's been out looking over new pickle dishes, crust stands and such, and has returned to the office unable to make a decision. In that mood he has written.

He's wrong all through, you air, right from the top of his head to the bottom of his big feet. Instead of writing such stuff he should have been spending his time, instead of some idiotic story like to say at the wedding, something that would cause people to point to him on the street next day and remark that he was just the life of the party.

Imagine sobbing about men who are spoiled because they get run out of the house in the morning instead of being cuddled and kissed prior to departure.

What under the sun does he want? What does he suppose? Would he have a spoon of butter and cooking over a dish of mush, and a series of omelettes thrown into a roaster of bacon and eggs, and a little wedding party while the husband was trying to drink his coffee out of a saucer?

Dad! Come more, Dad! The average man goes up in a hurry in the morning. He's got about 12 minutes to shave, wash, dress and make himself presentable. By the time he lands down stairs he's got one eye pitched to the kitchen clock and the other on the side door.

What he wants then, craves for and admires, is a wife who can fit in with his desire for a little speed. She's got to get a certain number of colonies in her body and stick into him to keep his body and soul on good terms until dinner time. That's her business and

Alberta Coal Fields Contain Much Oil

MONTREAL—The announcement is made by the Chemical and Dry Trust of Germany that the Bergin method of converting coal into oil has at last actually begun.

Petrol, kerosene and lubricating oil is at this moment being produced from coal in Germany in large quantities on a commercial basis.

The oil is of the finest quality and the cost of the process is stated to be satisfactory. Chemical experts in Germany are confidently prophesying that within five years they will be independent of outside oil supplies.

The British government has carried out considerable researches and experiments in the production of oil and petrol from coal, and H. Kerr Thomas, president of the Institution of Automobile Engineers, states after experiments in the distillation of coal by the Bergin process that with the application of this method the province of Alberta possesses enough known coal to supply the world with gasoline for the next thousand years.

The Bergin process for the hydrogenation of coal is considered so important that British, American and Dutch oil companies, in order to safeguard their own interests, have acquired holdings in it. It is the intention of the German dye trust to build two great "oil-from-coal" works. They have such a vast organization that they can undertake experiments on a large scale. The objection to the process has been the cost.

The coal is reduced to powder, which is impelled into retorts where hydrogen gas is passing at great pressure. This converts the coal dust into a thick liquid like tar, which by refinement yields various grades of oil.

Years of Research
Professor Bergin said it had taken twelve years of research to make liquefaction of coal economical, but now it was possible by his process to liquefy every grade of lignite and coal except anthracite.

One ton of bituminous coal would yield 700 gallons of oil, of which forty-five gallons was petrol and the remainder was gas oil, lubricating oil and fuel oil.

NEW ARRIVALS THIS YEAR WILL TOTAL 200,000

MONTREAL—On the basis of present returns, 200,000 people will be added to Canada's population this year. For several weeks ocean liners have been coming into Halifax, St. John, Quebec and Montreal daily, each loaded to capacity with new citizens. One of the largest agencies interested in this work makes the statement that they are unable to handle all the settlers which they have application for, and that it will be necessary to postpone the movement of some of these people until later on in the fall and possibly until next year.

The preponderance of the newcomers are still from European countries, but there has been an appreciable increase in the number of those coming from the British Isles. The class of settlers imported to date is probably the best the Dominion has had in many years. They are all selected. Moreover they are going to engage in agricultural work and practically all of them went directly from the boat to farm jobs which had been secured for them before they left the other side.

British immigration during the first three months, including only those who went out under state-aided schemes, totalled 10,242, as compared with 6,622 a year ago. Emigration from England does not reach its peak until May, so that statistics for the six months are likely to be exceptionally high. It is understood that the Canadian Govern-

"PHILANTHROPISTS" TURN OLD TRICK

BIRMINGHAM—Confidence men, posing as wealthy philanthropists with $15,000 to distribute among Birmingham's needy, robbed S. G. Shala, Homewood, of $2,000 in cash and made their escape, according to reports filed with the police.

A winning personality, a handsome chief, a small safe and a slight of hand trick were used in the robbery. Shala told the police: Before their victim was aware that he had been robbed the "con men" had made good their escape.

According to Shala's story, two men with names which he could not remember approached him in search of a man of high character and integrity with whom they could invest $15,000, which was, according to his claim, to be distributed among the needy of Birmingham.

The man with whom the money was to be invested, was required by the two men to produce $2,000 in cash. He showed that he was a reliable person.

Shala volunteered to fill the position and went to the bank and drew out $2,000 in $50 bills and met the men in Capitol Park. There the money was turned over to the confidence men. They produced a wrapped parcel which they claimed contained the $15,000 and placed it in a handkerchief with Shala's $2,000. He then carefully wrapped the handkerchief around the money, taping all the while.

"Now," he said, after the money had been wrapped, "don't do like most folks, take the package and try to hide it under your coat like this." While he talked he shoved the bundle up under his coat by way of example. Take it and put it in the safe and lock the safe." He withdrew the handkerchief from under his coat and placed it in the safe and locked it.

The safe was turned over to Shala and the trio parted after sealing hands. Shala carried the safe home and opened it and found that it contained three $1 bills wrapped around a bundle of paper. He immediately appealed to the police.

BOWING OUT THE DIVINE SPARK

Because the race of man has surrounded itself with marvelous luxuries and inventions through its advances in scientific materialism is no proof that it can, now or at any time, dispense with what has been inspirationally described as the "divine plan of the ages." Metaphysicians, philosophers and true evangelists have always known this, but what is of paramount importance at this time is that the scientists are discovering it to be true. They are discovering that it is the character of the reaction of the spirit of the race to the achievements of science that is decisive.

A few nights ago at a college Greek letter banquet in New Haven, Conn., Professor Bradley Southington, mechanical engineer of distinction, declared that civilization is unable and in danger of destruction unless there is a speedy end of the age of materialism which scientists have forced upon the race. Professor Southington says that flippancy, contempt for ideals, contempt for law, contempt for all authority, irreverence, license masquerading as freedom, pessimism, despondency, nervous afflictions, mental unbalance and suicide are the increasing symptoms of the present materialistic age.

He might have gone further and mentioned specifically our literature as one of the most prominent and terrible of these symptoms. Our so-called philosophers and critics have become literary maniacs and vandals; our poets are pagans and satyrs; our biographers are cunning ghouls, and our fiction writers are sex sots.

What "the fool says in his heart" has ever been the madness of the race—more at some periods of time, less at others. The race of mankind can not escape its origin nor its appointed destiny. Science and materialism, though they may seem substantial and all-sufficient, can not be substituted for the divine plan without fatal results. History, repeating itself ever and over, has proven that. If the divine spark is blown out there is darkness and hopelessness.
